

Academic Integrity @ Pitt: A Workshop Series for International Graduate Students

A partnership between the Office of International Services (OIS), the University Library System (ULS), and The Writing Center, this two-part workshop will introduce new international graduate students to the culture of academia in a U.S. university. In the first session, students will learn about classroom expectations, understand plagiarism and how to avoid it, and practice citing sources correctly in their work. In the second session, students will learn about writing a literature review, get tips for improving their academic writing, and understand research ethics. Please join us for this orientation to the culture of American academics and research. Light refreshments will be served.

Two Tracks are Available

Hard Sciences, Engineering, Math sessions	Social Sciences, Arts, Humanities sessions
Session #1 Avoiding Plagiarism Thursday, October 1 1-3pm O'Hara Student Center - Ballroom, 4024 O'Hara Street Registration required online at: academicintegrityoct1.eventbrite.com	Session #1 Avoiding Plagiarism – Tuesday, September 29 1-3pm O'Hara Student Center - Ballroom, 4024 O'Hara Street Registration required online at: academicintegritysep29.eventbrite.com
Session #2 Research Ethics Wednesday, October 7 1-3pm O'Hara Student Center - Ballroom, 4024 O'Hara Street Registration required online at: academicintegrityoct7.eventbrite.com	Session #2 Research Ethics Monday, October 5 1-3pm O'Hara Student Center - Ballroom, 4024 O'Hara Street Registration required online at: academicintegrityoct5.eventbrite.com

Look for details in the Weekly Update and on the Academic Integrity and Plagiarism page of My Public Health.